For the older subjects, the trend toward the hip adduction angle being greater than the knee flexion angle was present for the ambulation conditions, but the difference was not statistically significant. However, for the ambulation conditions, older subjects exhibited a significant increase in hip adduction moment with increasing age (P Q: Negative number in FK in ROW DELETE I have a table called tblStudents and a table called tblRooms. tblStudents references the primary key in tblRooms called RoomID. Now, when I do a Row Delete on tblStudents, when I do ROW DELETE on a Student, I want to delete from the corresponding Room. However, a negative value is entered into the RoomID column, e.g., tblStudents contains the RoomID value -35. How can I do a ROW DELETE on RoomID? A: You can not delete a negative value in MySQL. In this case, I would change the column to a smallint. MySQL does not support negative primary key values. A simple solution is to change the column to a smallint and change the FK to be the negative of the original value. You will need to update the foreign key constraint to reference the new column.
